What do you want to do today?

Hiking

Forested or bathed in sunlight, on the level or for the uphill-inclined, short loops or day-long treks (and everything in between), 150 miles of trails beckon.

Camping & Backpacking

Fall asleep to the sound of ocean surf. Get centered at a secluded walk-in site. Pitch your tent on some of Sonoma County's most inspiring ground.

Biking

Paved, off-street routes run along vineyards, creeks and meadows. Off-road trails plunge and climb for panoramic views.

Birding & Wildlife Viewing

Migration along the Pacific Flyway makes for excellent birding throughout Sonoma County. Local wildlife thrives in diverse habitats.

Paddling

Whether you like to paddle standing up or sitting down, through ocean waves, river currents or placid lakes, there's a park for that.

Fishing

Test your skill on the Russian River when the steelhead run. Drop a lazy line in a quiet pond. Cast from the beach or launch out for deep-sea catch.

Swimming

The Water Park at Spring Lake is perfect for family splashfests. Russian River beaches are for floating away the day. The gentle waves at Doran Beach couldn't be better for bodyboarding.

Tidepooling

Pack a picnic basket and spend the day exploring a piece of our spectacular coastline. There's no end of fascinating stuff teeming in tide pools and clinging to rocky outcrops.

sonoma COAST

60 miles of coastline from Bodega Bay to the Gualala River highlighting 8 beachfront parks.

Doran Beach

You try to get the kids interested in building castles, but they want to bury Daddy in the sand again.

The puppy has stretched to the end of his leash and is digging to China. You watch the swells offshore, calming with the ebb of the tide. The scent of barbecue drifts over from the campsites.

After lunch, it'll be perfect for surfing.

Gualala Point

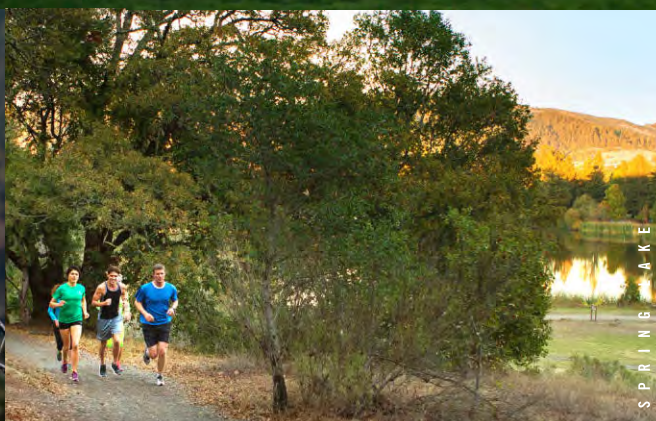

There's a driftwood tepee tall enough to stand up inside and an unobstructed view to where the ranger saw gray whales breaching yesterday.

The river runs headlong into crashing surf, but you can still hear a sea lion barking from behind a rocky outcrop. The hiking trails seemed like a good idea earlier, but this isn't such a bad spot.

Vineyards, mountains, lakes or wetlands — what are you in the mood for?

Hood Mountain

Switchbacking up the Johnson Ridge trail past the pond and the homestead site, your quads keep reminding you of the ascent to the summit—one of the steepest in the Bay Area, you've heard. But nothing can throw you off. Conditions are perfect for Gunsight Rock. When you get there, sure enough, in the distance the Golden Gate Bridge pokes out of city fog. EPIC.

Spring Lake

Redwing blackbirds twang their hearts out in the marsh. Kids on training wheels zigzag down an open stretch of paved path. Wood smoke wafts across the trail from the campsites. A splash.

The rustle of wings. A mallard family pumps low across the surface, quacking, then skids to a halt in the reeds. Cattails. Weeping willow. Breathe.

russian RIVER

Meanders past towering redwoods and through unique resort towns that remember the simple ways to have fun.

STEELHEAD BEACH

SUNSET BEACH

WOHLER BRIDGE

Riverfront

It's a hot summer afternoon, and you're kicking back with a group of your closest friends in the deep shade of the picnic area, your pit-master buddies manning the giant barbecue. Later, you'll wander out of the redwood grove for a stroll around Lake Benoit. Or maybe you'll launch your paddleboards instead and cruise across the water.

Another chill Sonoma County day.

Sunset Beach

You had the place to yourselves when you put in the kayaks just after sunrise. Now, heading ashore, you pass a family with fishing gear setting up on the riverbank. Picnic blankets dot the beach. A Lab splashes in after a ball lobbed from shore. In the brush down by the bridge, you watch a pair of birders freeze in their tracks as a great blue heron wades into view. Time for a swim and a nap.
